XIII. NORWAY

Assistance extended by the Norwegian Government is through the Norwegian Agency for Development Cooperation (NORAD). Norwegian assistance is in the form of a grant.

- 2. Areas of Cooperation: Earlier Norwegian assistance was concentrated in the social sectors. In 1990, the Norwegian Government took a decision to gradually reduce aid to India and to shift their focus on the industrial sector. They continue to give priority to issue relating to the development of women and environment.
- 3. Norwegian Aid Policy for India: The policy of the Norwegian Government on Aid to India has undergone radical change since 1991-92. Previously, approximately 60 per cent of the aid allocated to India was oriented towards social sectors and for eradication of poverty. However, they have now taken a decision to withdraw from these sectors and only concentrate on institutional cooperation and promotion of their industrial sector. They would, however, continue their assistance in the environment sector and for the development of women. The volume of Norwegian aid to India has shrunk to almost one third of what it used to be in 1990. As compared to NOK 140 million in 1990, it was NOK 45 million in 1995. Under Norway's new aid policy India no longer enjoys the status of a programme country after 1995. From 1996, no allocations are being made for India under the country programme. All commitments made by the Norwegian Government under the country programme on projects for which agreements have already been signed will be fulfilled. Norway is moving away from the country framework i.e. they will not earmark funds countrywise but will have global funds which can be accessed by all countries with suitable projects.

According to the new guidelines for Development cooperation with India, adopted by Norwegian parliament, Education, Child labour and environment will be the priority areas. Allocations to India would be financed by NORAD's Regional Fund for Asia. Productive Sector Projects will be gradually phased out. The global fund for Industrial Development Cooperation will be open for India comprising of financing of mixed credit schemes and Investment support.

XVII. SWEDISH ASSISTANCE

India has been a recipient of Swedish Assistance since 1964 although Sweden joined the Aid India Consortium as a full member only in 1969. The terms of Swedish assistance have become progressively softer over the years. After 1976, Swedish assistance is in the form of a 100% grant and is mainly focussed on the social sector and the energy sector. In addition to grant assistance, Swedish government, has extended soft loans, for large power sector projects. Earlier, Sweden used to allocate 0.91 per cent of its GDP for development cooperation. This was reduced to 0.7% of its GDP in the last year. The aim, however, is to restore the level to 1 per cent of the GNP as soon as the Swedish economy so permits. Despite the cut in the Swedish aid budget, taking into account SIDA grant aid and concessional credits available from other Swedish Organisations, India becomes the largest recipient of Swedish assistance not only among the Asian countries but also among African and Latin American countries.

2.Future Strategy for Indo-Swedish Development Cooperation (1997-1999): Future strategy for Indo-Swedish

Development Cooperation in the three year period of 1997-99 covered by the new Development Cooperation Agreement dated 28.11.96 focuses on poverty alleviation and infrastructure:-

- (a) The broad areas of Swedish assistance are:-
- poverty oriented projects and programmes in the primary education and health sectors;
- ii) environment, including natural resources management and the modern/industrial/urban sector;
- energy saving and other areas of importance to more efficient use of energy resources;
- iv) consultancy fund;
- activities aimed at encouraging sharing of experiences and expertise between India and Sweden.
- (b) Since there is a high level of skills and knowledge that are to be found in both India and Sweden, it was agreed that a gradually increasing amount should be used to stimulate the exchange of experiences and joint development of know-how between India and Sweden. This can be done within the framework of research cooperation, exchange of experts, contract financing, courses, and through cooperation between India and Swedish NGOs. The Indian side emphasised that they would like the maximum amount to be allocated under the country frame for projects where the funds are routed through the Government of India budget, especially for local cost projects.
- (c) Sweden primarily concentrates its assistance in the States of Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu, Orissa and Himachal Pradesh. During the negotiations held in November, 1996, the Indian side indicated that Swedish support should be extended as far as possible to more number of States. This was again discussed during Annual Review Meeting held in February, 1998 and it was agreed that a certain geographical spread would be considered by Embassy while initiating and identifying new projects.
- (d) Since the strategy for Swedish assistance was finalised only in November, 1996, no new projects were being considered by the Swedish Government for the last 2-3 years. Now that the strategy has been finalised, project proposals have been called from the various administrative Ministries/Departments and State Governments.
